

Information Retrieval

Introduction:

The course provides basic theory and practical technology in information retrieval (IR). Primary coverage includes information resources and their digitalization, core search tools and their databases, search engines, DIALOG system, Web of Knowledge platform and so on. Students will be trained by applying both manual and computerized technology in the science, social sciences, and humanities so as to master various retrieval methods.